Project Updates

Coburg

Coburg apartments have now been released. We are hoping to have the valuation for each apartment ready for our information sessions taking place in April. Come and see us at one of the workshops or make an appointment to speak with us during office hours to discuss your personal situation.

** For those of you whom we have already met, this is the time to be visiting your financial lenders to determine how much you will safely be able to borrow.

Brunswick

Brunswick is progressing and we are working towards a release date of early 2023, (with an approximate completion of construction by late 2024). If you are attracted to the Brunswick site, we encourage you to register your interest for the development so we can keep you informed of its progress.

Parkville

Whilst the Parkville site has been very popular amongst many of you, unfortunately this project is currently on hold. Due to its size, complexity and unforeseen circumstances, the planning and permit process has stalled. The Barnett Foundation is currently working with government departments to sort through some issues and if the process is able to restart, we do not expect this to occur until next year. We will endeavour to keep you informed of its status.

The Barnett Model

Barnett invests in people living in social housing by providing innovative financial solutions to enable them to purchase their own home. This in turn frees up their dwelling for those on the waiting list for social housing.

Download our Coburg brochure to find out more about how the Barnett Model works and eligibility criteria.
